PLUS, these practice NBME exams literally have repeat questions and concepts on the actual exam - How many questions can these guys possibly think of anyways!? I know this because I have taken all the exams before taking the shelf and walked out of the actual test being like, OMG! literally the same questions or concepts.

All shelf tests are essentially medicine tests. I had quite a few questions on fluids, causes of tachycardia, causes of thrombocytopenia, etc. You probably already know this, but avoid picking the surgery-related answer just because it's a surgery shelf. Pestana and Uworld are good and will get you pretty far.
