Here it is, the last installment on my three part lesson plan series. After discussing the concept of Bansho and Gallery Walk, we move onto another instructional strategy that supports the development of mathematical thought. This last part is called Math Congress. While every child's solutions are valuable, we as teachers are always in need to be effective communicators and efficient in the ...

Inquiry-based learning (also enquiry-based learning in British English) is a form of active learning that starts by posing questions, problems or scenarios rather than simply presenting established facts or portraying a smooth path to knowledge. The process is often assisted by a facilitator. Inquirers will identify and research issues and questions to develop their knowledge or solutions.
